VETERANS PARADED WITH THINNED RANKS

Spectators Looked On In Tears—Old Soldiers Rode Horses of U. S. Calvarymen Under Arches of Entertwined Confederate and U. S. Flags, Showing End of War's Bitterness.

[By Associated Press.]

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 29.—The Confederate veterans paraded today with such thinned ranks in every division that many of the spectators watched the procession with tears in their eyes. The standards borne by the cavalrymen almost touched the overhead arches which were formed of entwined Confederate and United States flags.

Another evidence of the end of the war's bitterness was that the one thousand aged veterans were riding on prancing horses loaned by the Eleventh United States Cavalry at Fort Oglethorpe here.

Numerous veterans were so infirm they had to be assisted in the saddles, but every last one of them stuck to his horse once he was mounted.

Many were too feeble to walk the full parade route and were picked up by automobiles as they dropped out from their comrades.

sobriety today. They testified that during the Cuban campaign Colonel Roosevelt drank only black coffee with water, never liquor of any kind.

Philip Roosevelt, the relative, testified that the Colonel keeps a "regular gentleman's cellar" in his house, but
